How the ratings work

Ratings are computed per country, practice area, filing track and time window from official filing and outcome records. Six pillars: experience, initial success, relative efficiency, asset durability, renewal survival and local applicant share. Small samples are shrunk toward the cohort median, so a handful of favourable cases cannot create a top rating. Two ratings are published. The top quarter of each peer group is Top Rated, and all other rated firms are Rated. Every published rating carries a confidence grade of A, B or C. Grade D is never published.

What may be quoted

Individual ratings may be quoted with attribution ("Source: IPRATE, iprate.eu"). Bulk reuse of tables and datasets requires prior written authorisation. A rated firm may display its own rating badge. A badge does not imply endorsement of anything else.
